

Don't Neglect Health Insurance

Many of us work hard to provide for our families and save up for rainy days or a big ticket item like a dream holiday or a new 42-inch television set. Don't let illness wipe out your years of hard-earned savings.

Disability insurance has evolved over the years into the modern day health insurance plans readily available in the market. Most comprehensive health insurance plans cover the cost of routine, preventive and emergency health care procedures. Some even offer a daily hospitalization cash benefit and a one-off get well cash payment upon your discharge from the hospital.

Medical fees in Singapore can be mountainous, to the extent that average and low income families may find themselves faced with hefty bills from a single major illness suffered by a family member. Having adequate health coverage is an act of responsibility, love and consideration for one's family, while enabling one to have a peace of mind knowing that in the event of illness, one has the funds to seek medical treatment.

It is always encouraged to purchase health insurance at a young age. The assumption is that illness tends to occur with age, thus younger people seldom have pre-existing health conditions which are likely to be excluded by insurers. Purchasing a health insurance plan when you are young and healthy will allow you to enjoy the full benefits and coverage of the plan.

Before purchasing a health insurance plan, you should carefully and realistically consider the quality of healthcare and the level of income protection you would need or want, in the event of an illness or disability. View your insurance coverage in totality to ensure that you and your family are well-covered.
